Carestream Dental*

Jack Vant oversees the design and execution of the Carestream Dental's imaging and software growth strategies for marketing and sales in the United States and Canada. Vant has been with Carestream Dental since September 2015.

Vant first joined the Carestream family in 2013 as the area vice president for the West Zone within Carestream's medical division. In this role, he was responsible for driving sales and growth across Carestream Health's diagnostic medical equipment and IT portfolio. With a strong focus on teamwork, he quickly implemented a common vision, cadence and increased motivation to align the team, leading to an immediate turnaround and successful outcomes. During his tenure, the West Zone not only exceeded the annual operating plan each year, but increased its market share position year over year as well.

Vant began his career in healthcare working for Fisher Scientific's international laboratory projects division, eventually becoming the director of international sales. In 2002, he joined Siemens Healthcare, working in account executive and key account manager roles throughout the New York City region and Northeast Zone. Vant was ultimately promoted to regional vice president of sales for the Los Angeles region, encompassing southern California and southern Nevada, in 2011. Under his leadership, the region was re-energized and grew dramatically, realizing almost a 10 percent market share growth.

Graduating summa cum laude and with phi beta kappa honors, Vant received his Bachelor of Science in biology and economics from the University of California, Irvine.
